

LOST BATHING GIRL FOUND AFTER NIGHT IN DISMAL SWAMP

Man Who Took Her for a Row
She Says Threw Her Out of Boat After Quarrel.

Annie Lester, seventeen years old, of Avenue A, Bayonne, N. J., was found shortly before noon to-day at a bathing suit prostrated by the heat and terribly bitten by mosquitoes in a swamp on the meadows near Elizabeth, N. J. She said she was put ashore from a rowboat above Elizabethport at about 10 o'clock last night by a young man of Bayonne named Lester Leach of No. 120 West 14th Street, Bayonne, N. J., after she had fought with him. She lost her way in the swamp trying to find shelter. The girl left her home at 7:30 o'clock last night in her bathing suit for a swim at Stanley's Beach at the foot of West 19th Street, a block away. She met Leach there and he took her out in his rowboat.

At 1 o'clock this morning the girl's parents reported to the police that she had not returned to her home. Investigation brought to light witnesses who had seen her leave the beach in Leach's rowboat. Policemen went to Leach's home in West 14th Street and found him in bed. He admitted he had seen the Lester girl at the beach but said it was his wife who had gone out with him in the rowboat. The wife confirmed the statement. Inasmuch as witnesses had post-tively stated that the Lester girl was Leach's companion in the rowboat he was arrested. Chief of Detectives Clarke searched the rowboat at daybreak and found some of the Lester girl's hairpins. Mrs. Leach was arrested at 10 o'clock.

Preparations were under way to lodge a charge of murder against Leach when word was received from the Elizabeth police that Annie Lester had been found. According to the advices from Elizabeth the girl said that when the boat was some distance from shore Leach made improper advances to her. She resisted him and the boat drifted to the Jersey side, where he threw her out and rowed away.

Leach, who is twenty-seven years old, has served two jail terms and has been arrested several times in addition.

Bottle of Scotch Drops on Raider, Knocks Him Out

Barron Finds Hooch Hidden Everywhere on Ship and Acquires Distillery Aroma.

When Customs Inspector George Barron was hunting hooch in a narrow passage in the engine room of the Maracabo, in from Venezuela ports, last night, a bottle of Scotch was dropped on his head and knocked him colder than Dempsey knocked Carpenter.

The breaking of the bottle, it is said, saved his life, but even to-day he carries the odor of a walking distillery. Nothing daunted, Barron, on his recovery, led the search into the chain locker, and the raiders unrolled a mile of chains and uncovered four cases of Scotch. Just at that moment a length of chain came rattling down into the locker from above, barely missing the raiders and smashing the cases and their contents.

Then the searchers went through the ship with a fine tooth comb. They found a teddy bear loaded with precious Scotch. They found a hot water bag filled with it. Oil cans, vinegar bottles, pitchers, lengths of hose and nearly everything on the vessel that could hold Scotch had been pressed into service, even a life buoy being found which had been made serviceable.

Customs Inspector Barron was down at the barge office to-day and big Frank Roth, the South Ferry cop, came away pinching him on suspicion, and every passenger from the Staten Island ferryboats sniffed all the way to the subway.

BOOTLEGGERS KILL DEPUTY AT UTICA

Two Runners Badly Hurt in Running Gun Battle—Fist Fight in Hospital.

UTICA, July 8.—Surrounded by deputy sheriffs as they were in the act of unloading a barrel of liquor into a cafe here to-day, alleged bootleggers put up a running gun fight and killed Deputy Sheriff Charles J. Kummerlohr. Two of their number are in St. Luke's Hospital with serious wounds.

Leader Cominsky and Nathan Denmark, who were with the bootleggers, were shot down by the deputy sheriffs after Kummerlohr had been shot through the heart as he stepped on to the running board of the car containing the liquor.

Relative of the wounded men who visited them to-day were questioned by detectives, and a hot fight at the hospital ensued, followed by the arrest of several of the relatives.
